count. They were expected to retain their seats.

Miss Salome Halderson, Social Credit candidate and one of four women in the campaign, was conceded election in St. George.

Premier Bracken and Hon. E. A. McPherson, Provincial Treasurer, were not candidates in today's voting. They will face the electorate in the Fall and Rupert's Land on August 21.

The brilliant victory of Lewis St. George Stubbs, Independent, in Winnipeg, was a feature of the voting. The former judge of the county court in Manitoba was believed to have established a record in winning first choices.

LEADER IS ELECTED

Ernie P. Willis, Conservative leader, was elected in Deloraine to score his party's first gain from the Liberal-Progressive ranks.

Necessary for second counts under the alternative-vote system in constituencies outside of Winnipeg left several contests undecided. Where three or more candidates are running, a clear majority was necessary for election, the low man dropping out on the second count and his vote being redistributed.

The proportional representation system in Winnipeg involves complicated transfer of votes which sometimes takes two or three days.

Election of Ivan Schulz, Liberal-Progressive, in Assiniboia was the first to be conceded and with the election by acclamation of S. S. Garson in Fairford the Government forces held the first two seats to be decided.

LEADING IN MORRIS

Hon. W. R. Clubb, Minister of Public Works, was in the lead in Morris constituency over Phillip Bourgois, Conservative. Hon. R. A.

Three Burned to Death in Forest

HAVRE, Mont., July 27 (AP).—Three members of a United States geological survey crew were trapped and burned fatally tonight in a forest fire raging on a twenty-five mile front in the Little Rockies, mountain range southeast of Havre.

The head of the survey party was in the fire area tonight, but his exact location was not known. A check was being made to learn whether others may be missing.

LIGHTNING KILLS THREE

CLEVELAND, July 27 (AP).—Lightning killed three persons and injured several others as thunderstorms broke a short-lived heat wave in Ohio tonight after 100 degrees.

Fires Ravage Forests

Forest fires raged last week in Northern Ontario, especially around the Sudbury area in Second Township, where much damage has been done. Pictures above show a plane being unloaded at Horseshoe Lake. Pilot Fisher is seen on the wing. An air view of the fire is also shown. Below, a fawn chased out of the bush by the fire was transported by air to a safe spot and released.

Woman Seriously Injured by Bull

ROCK CREEK, B.C., July 27 (AP).—Mrs. Isaac Filmore today was suffering from severe wounds, the result of being gored by an angry bull as she was walking through the barnyard of her home.

Mrs. Filmore was found outside the barnyard fence by her husband, who rushed to her aid. Stitches were required to close her wounds.

As Mrs. Filmore crossed the yard the bull, which had a reputation of being gentle, suddenly attacked her and threw her to the ground. He hooked her with his horns and threw her under the fence.

LEADING LADY REACHES CITY

Miss Wendy Barrie, Charming British Actress, Will Start Work Today

With the arrival in Victoria yesterday afternoon of the charming young British actress, Miss Wendy Barrie, who is to take the leading part in the picture, "Why Let 'Em Live," which is being produced here, the entire cast is now on the ground and the completion of the work will be rushed forward with all speed.

Miss Barrie feels somewhat at home here, she said to The Colonist shortly after her arrival at the Empress Hotel. She had as a young girl stayed at the Empress with her parents on their travels between England and the Orient.

The daughter of Irish-born parents, the actress reveals in her blue eyes, Auburn hair and vivacious manner, characteristics of the race to which she belongs. She was born in the Orient, where her father, a British barrister and King's counsel, followed his profession for a time.

IS KEPT BUSY

Miss Barrie has not long to stay here, as she is under engagement to start within a few days on a Twentieth Century-Fox Company picture in Hollywood, with Lawrence Tibbett in the other major role. This is "Love's Flight."

In eighteen months in Hollywood Miss Barrie has appeared in ten pictures, the latest being an M-G-M picture, in which she appeared with James Stewart, and which was called "Speed."

FILMS ARE GOOD

Kenneth Bishop, of the Central Films, has received word from Hollywood that the first of the films made here and forwarded for reproduction to the South turned out, in good shape, which will dispense with the need of retaking any parts.

On Saturday evening the "shooting" of inside scenes in the play was started at the studio at the Willows and will be continued from time to time as the work goes on, alternating between the studio and outside scenes.

Miss Barrie will begin her work today with the picture now under way by the Central Films.

TWELVE ARABS KILLED IN ATTEMPTED AMBUSH

JERUSALEM, July 27 (AP).—Twelve Arabs were reported killed today in the hills of Judea after an attempted ambush of a bus en route to Tel Aviv, conveyed by British troops.

Airplanes came to the aid of the convoy and bombed a wood into which the Arabs fled.

COMET COMES UNDER STUDY

Victoria Astronomical Society Enjoys Field Night At Observatory

Peltier's comet, now approaching the earth at the rate of 2,000,000 miles daily, and which will reach its closest position of approximately 16,000,000 miles on August 4, was the subject last evening of special observation from Observatory Mountain, Saanich, by a group of members and others attending the first and only field-night, scheduled for the Summer study series, of the Victoria Centre of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada.

The party left the city at 7:30 by two special buses and several private cars. On arrival at the Observatory they were welcomed by the director, Dr. W. E. Harper, who after a few introductory words, turned the big seventy-two-inch telescope over to Dr. R. M. Peltier, of his staff. The next half hour was occupied with the study of some of the interesting double stars, including Beta Cygni.

MAKE OBSERVATIONS

Meantime, two smaller telescopes, one in charge of Dr. Andrew McKellar, the other in charge of Robert Peters, vice-president of the society, were put into use, the former being used to observe the moon, and the latter for the study of Jupiter and its satellites. Because of the position of Peltier's comet in the sky, it was found impracticable to use the big telescope for observing it, but its path was indicated and interesting information given the observers.

Lieutenant-Commander Tingley, president of the Victoria centre, at the end of the instructive programme, expressed the members' thanks to Dr. Harper and his staff. Among the visitors specially welcomed at the meeting were Dr. Fritz Neubauer, one of the astronomers from the Lick Observatory, California, and A. V. Goddard, from Portland, Oregon. Mr. Goddard, a member of the American Astronomical Association, has a sixteen-inch telescope of his own, and with it has done some very fine research work that has furnished material for numerous articles in The Portland Oregonian.

When Poisons Clog KIDNEYS and Irritate Bladder JUST DO THIS

Do in your dream today and set this safe, with a harmless diuretic and stimulant, ask for Gold Medal, Huxford Oil Capsules, and start at once to flush kidneys of waste matter saturated with acids and poisons.

That's the way to bring about healthy kidney activity and stop that bladder irritation which often causes many passages with smarting and burning, as well as restless nights.

Remember, the kidneys often need flushing as well as the bowels, and some symptoms of kidney weakness are getting up once or twice during the night—puffy eyes—stamps in legs—backache and most palms. But be sure and get GOLD MEDAL Huxford Oil Capsules, the original and genuine—made from Huxford's in Holland—the price is small (40 cents), the good results will fulfill your expectations. (Adv.)

Six Risk Chins and Throats in Shaving Contest at Seattle

Eighteen-Year-Old Girl Shaves Friend in Two Minutes, but Subject Did Not Have Many Whiskers to Start With

SEATTLE, July 27 (AP).—Only six men volunteered to risk their chins and throats to razors in a women's shaving contest, which featured a Wallingford community picnic here this evening.

And when the last mouthful of lather had been splattered and the last cloud of talcum powder drifted away, an eighteen-year-old high school girl, Louise Nagel, was declared the champion—having given her friend, Norman W. Porteous, a perfect shave in 2 minutes flat. Porteous, at seventeen, hadn't many whiskers to start with.

TOO MANY SCRATCHES

Second best time was the 2 minutes 15 seconds established by Mrs. Estelle McDonald, on her friend, Clarence W. Massart, plumber, but the plentiful scratches and nicks on Massart's chin penalized her into third place behind June Goff, former community beauty contest winner, who did eighteen-year-old Joe Gamble's shaving in 2 minutes 30 seconds.

Like Porteous, Gamble's facial foliage was neither luxuriant nor stiff, but he asserted he will attempt to win the annual sophomoric beard growing contest at the University of Washington next fall.

HUSBAND-WIFE CONTESTANTS
The only husbands who underwent their wives' ministrations were Dr. Frederick M. Lash, former state educational director, who was temporarily lost in a fog of talcum powder, and J. Arvid Anderson, who was visiting here from Moscow, Idaho.

The only other contestants were Elin Culp, twenty, who wielded the brush, safety razor and powder puff on G. J. Keelber, fuel man.

All the men, save Massart, came unshaven through their close shaves.

A Communist Member of Parliament, William Gallacher, interjected after Eden's statement, "Now a vote of this is to Mussolini!"

STEP FORWARD
Mr. Eden hailed the success of the recent tri-power Locarno conference as a great step toward working out a new Locarno agreement for European security.

He reaffirmed the British guarantee against aggression given Belgium and France under the old Locarno Treaty, denounced by Chancellor Hitler when he remilitarized the Rhineland.

He also referred to the question of territories held by Germany until the end of the Great War and now mandated to Britain.

"As far as the Home Government is concerned," Eden said, "the question of any transfer of mandated territory would inevitably raise grave difficulties—moral, political and legal—to which the Home Government very frankly says it has been unable to find any solution."

Pride of Spanish Fleet

One of the most dramatic episodes of the present Spanish civil war occurred on board the battleship the Jaime Primo. Her captain and five officers were slain and their bodies heaved overboard by their mutinous crew when they attempted to take the vessel to the rebels. Thus, a resident of Victoria for eighteen years, late residence, 1403 Bay Street, he is survived by his widow at the family residence and one niece, Mrs. Percy Bykes, residing in Regina.

Crawshaw was a member of the Canadian Legion, Britannia Branch, and served overseas with the 54th Battalion. The funeral has been arranged to take place from the Thomson Funeral Home on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

ACTION JUSTIFIED
"I think it will be agreed that the information I have just given fully justified the conclusion that the situation which, in the view of His Majesty's Government, made it desirable to give these assurances," said the Foreign Secretary.

"I am, therefore, glad to be able to recognize and declare that, in the view of the Government, there is now no further need for the continuation of these assurances."

France and Rumania also were included in the mutual assistance pacts.

Concerning the question of reform of the League of Nations, the Foreign Secretary emphasized the Government's objective was to widen and strengthen the basis of international collaboration. He declined to make a detailed statement, which he said would prejudice the September meeting of the League of Nations Assembly.

ECONOMIC PRESSURE
In conclusion, Eden said in reference to armaments the opportunity for their limitation may come sooner than some people thought. He predicted that the economic pressure of a heavy burden of armaments might cause limitation to be accepted in quarters where at present it would be ridiculed.

Quarters close to the Foreign Office said Britain would adhere to a policy of non-intervention in the Spanish civil war.

ERIC THE RED LIVED AGAIN

Members of Vancouver's Norse Colony Re-enact Arrival of Viking Ship

VANCOUVER, July 27 (AP).—Exploits of the ancient Norsemen were recalled by a stalwart Viking ship which today rode proudly at anchor off the shore of Stanley Park in Burrard Inlet.

The vessel, built by members of Vancouver's Norse colony and manned by a crew of twenty-seven robust Norsemen in ancient costumes, sailed through the First Narrows here Saturday under command of George Olafson, who played the part of Liek Erikson, the first known white man to set foot on North America.

As the son of Eric the Red and his band of warriors were met by Indians on the Eastern shores of the continent, so the crew of this ancient vessel were met on the shore of Stanley Park by Chief Mathias and braves of the Capilano Indians.

The two parties exchanged peaceful greetings, then settled down to feast and smoke the pipe of peace. Later, they proceeded to Brockton Point Oval, where the city's Norsemen citizens celebrated Vancouver's fiftieth anniversary with native folk dances and music.

ABHOR
"Abhor" we are commanded in the good book, "that which is evil." Abhor is a word commonly misused; but least, it is in the same category as over-worked words like "marvellous," "gorgeous," and the like, which, often rather than inappropriately characterize situations undeserving of such extravagant description.

In such vein, you will hear people say they abhor spinach, abhor certain colors, abhor radio ballyhoo;

when what they really meant is that they do not like these things.
Now, to abhor is to hate; not only so, but to hate so intensely, so wholly that one's very nerve and fibre is not alone figuratively but physically taut from the consuming revulsion.
And when we read in Romans xii, 9, "Abhor that which is evil," the best is intended to shrink in passionate, fearful aversion.
This superlative degree of dislike the word comes by from its beginning; we have it from the Latin "abhorere" which means to bristle, to shudder, to wilt in impassioned fear from the inciting cause so horribly distasteful.

PRINCE GEORGE SAILING NORTH
National Line Ship Leaves Port at Mainland With Excursionists

VANCOUVER, July 27.—When the Prince George, Captain H. E. Neden, of the Canadian National Steamships Alaska Service, sails for Skagway tonight at 9 o'clock, she will have many interesting passengers on her fully booked list. Perhaps the most interesting party is comprised of twenty-five young people, sons and daughters of prominent residents of the United States Midwest, principally from Chicago, Ill., and vicinity, near Chicago. They are members of Parkhill's Traveling Tour, led by Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Parkhill. They left Chicago June 25, traveling overland through the states in their own specially-constructed camp autos en route to the Pacific Coast and Alaska. This tour is unique and will probably be marked in travel history as the first of its kind.

Another prominent party is the family group of Mr. and Mrs. Ward A. Wickwire, influential residents of Buffalo, N.Y., en route to Alaska, accompanied by their daughter, two sons and a friend. Others are Mrs. John F. Cody, accompanied by her son, George, and Miss Marie Laird, of Cody, Wyoming. Mrs. Cody is related to the late Col. W. F. "Buffalo Bill" Cody, known throughout the world as one of the most colorful figures in American history. Mrs. Robert Anderson, wife of the general counsel, Florida East Coast Railway, Jacksonville, Fla., is another passenger on the Prince George.

California again contributes the majority of passengers making tonight's sailing, with Eastern Canada and the United States well represented.

SPAIN'S CIVIL WAR

Republicanism has not yet been made a success in Spain, or there would be no such civil war as is raging in that country today. It is not being waged for a return of the monarchy; it may be doubted if the aim is to establish a Fascist Government. It is simply the outpouring of a bitter resentment against a Government which has failed, and failed lamentably, because of extreme measures. One of the first acts of Republicanism in Spain was to attack the Church; that was an episode of which the repercussions are still being felt. That was one radical act, and it led to the unseating of a radical Government and the putting of Moderates into power. The Moderates restored some of the abuses which led to the revolution against the monarchy, and an uprising of the radicals was put down with brutal force, black troops from Africa being used by the Government. Socialism again came into power, and it is against a Socialist Government which has become very unpopular that the present armed uprising is taking place.

The present Government in Spain cannot have failed to sense the unrest which led to civil war. It had made some preparations for the emergency, including the arming of workers, because it was not sure that it could rely on the military and naval forces. As a matter of fact, the army and navy seem to be split in their allegiance, and factions of the armed forces are fighting each other. The whole situation is clouded with uncertainty, and the dispatches are so fragmentary as to give no clear view of the progress of the civil war, which in reality connotes a revolution of a powerful character. All that appears certain is that the Spaniards must fight it out among themselves, and whatever the character of the next Government at Madrid, or if the present Government succeeds in maintaining its power, there will have to be steps taken to bring about a reconstruction of political ideals in Spain and a statesmanlike effort to solve the many problems of the country.

TREATY OF MONTREUX

By the Treaty of Montreux, Turkey is again given naval and military control of the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus. Under the Lausanne Pact, freedom of commercial transport to and from the Black Sea prevailed, and that is to be maintained. The former arrangement did not limit the naval tonnage permitted in the Dardanelles at any given time, but in the Montreux Pact there is a maximum prescribed for all non-Black Sea Powers, restricting each to 15,000 tons, and the condition applies in time of war only if Turkey happens to be neutral. The Montreux agreement gives Turkey power to close the Straits, not only when she is at war, but when she feels she is threatened by war. There is a provision, however, that the Straits would have to be opened, if, by a vote of two-thirds of the League of Nations Powers, there is the decision to accept the responsibility of guaranteeing Turkey against attack.

The Montreux Treaty practically closes the Straits to both submarines and aircraft of foreign Powers. Russia is to have an unlimited right to send her Black Sea fleet into the Mediterranean. She can use the Straits, if at war, if the League of Nations, or the signatories to a mutual defence pact which includes Turkey, may decide that the Soviet Union is the victim of aggression. The outcome of the pact is a victory for both Turkey and Russia. The concessions made are obviously with the desire to add to the strength of the balance of power in Europe.

ARABS AND JEWS

It is necessary for Great Britain to maintain eight battalions of troops in Palestine, together with armored cars, tanks and airplanes, so as to enforce her mandate in the face of Arab hostility to the Jews. Although comparatively little news has come out of Palestine for some weeks, the organized campaign, sometimes passive, sometimes active, against any further Jewish immigration is continuing. The present outbreak in progress for a few months is, according to Albert Vinton, writing in The Christian Century, "a spontaneous, unplanned mass eruption of hatred long in process of accumulation." This may or may not be true. It is probably more of a nationalist movement than anything else. The idea of nationalism is rampant in the East. It has flared out in Egypt, in Syria, in Iraq, and in Saudi Arabia, is more powerful today than ever before.

Palestine is honeycombed with patriotic societies. Youth is the directing force in the Arab campaign. The strike against the Jews is organized by those between the ages of eighteen and twenty-eight. If Jewish immigration to Palestine had not been permitted following the Great War, and provided the British had the mandate, the Arab campaign might well at this time be against any British occupation. The Moslem world has become strongly nationalistic. The Arabs are unconcerned by the extent of prosperity which Jewish settlement has brought to Palestine. The fact is that the Jews have not been able to make friends of the native population. The situation is very unfortunate, and no immediate solution appears to be in sight.

TRADE REPRISALS

Japan, some time ago, made demands on Australia for tariff concessions, which the Commonwealth refused. As a sequence, on June 25 last, a Tokyo ordinance imposed restrictions on imports from Australia. It is possible now to sell Australian wheat, wool and flour in Japan only under special licences, and beef, hides, tallow, condensed milk and casein are subjected to an additional Japanese ad valorem duty of 50 per cent. These commodities form the bulk of the Australian export trade to Japan.

Mr. Lyons, the Prime Minister of Australia, says that Japan took the initiative in the trade dispute. The price-cutting in Japan has affected both Great Britain and the chief purchaser of Australian goods and Australian manufacturers. The Australian Government is determined to preserve the market for British goods. The attitude of Mr. Lyons is that Australia, while anxious for the most friendly relationship with Japan, cannot allow Japanese price-cutting to drive the textiles of other countries off the market. The Japanese, as it is, practically monopolize the Australian rayon market, and they have been seeking to capture the cotton market, which is reserved for Great Britain, and desirable as a set-off against Australian exports to the Motherland.

In short, Japan wants a greater share in Australia's trade at the expense of Great Britain, and this is a policy the Commonwealth will not adopt. It believes in the efficacy of the Ottawa trade agreements, and is determined to preserve them. As a consequence there has been no weakening in trade policy as a result of the Japanese demands. The duties against Japanese goods will remain as they are, and probably Australia will extend the trade treaty with Great Britain to make up for whatever trade she loses with Japan.

PURE POETRY

In the sum total of poetical composition there is not much that can be called pure, according to Mr. J. Lewis May, writing in Thorn and Flower. He quotes the famous passage in The Tempest, in which Prospero muses upon the frailty and evanescence of the material world, to show that it is a piece of "sublime rhetoric, a majestic catalogue of things that must pass," set to the music of words. He describes it as noble, splendid, grandly sonorous, but the Great Magician only imparts his inimitable touch when he says:

We are such stuff
As dreams are made on; and our little life
Is rounded with a sleep—

This, says Mr. May, has the effect of a sort of apostrophe when "the rhetoric, the drums and the trumpets are hushed and a Voice, solitary, pleading, persuasive, yet insistent as the voice of Conscience itself, speaks in the stillness of the heart." Where is the poet, asks the writer, ancient, mediaeval, or modern, who possesses Shakespeare's power over words "that incalculable, mysterious magic which enables him, as in a flash, to transmute the homely, every-day words of the language, and mould them into luminous crystalline shapes of unimagined and unfading loveliness?"

Alberta's scrip will only circulate if it is accepted as a buying medium. If it does not circulate it will be valueless. The manufacturers and wholesale merchants have notified 12,000 retail dealers in the Province that they will not be able to accept the "prosperity" bonds as payment for goods. That means that if the retail merchants accept them they will simply be accumulating something that is non-negotiable. No currency is worth the paper it is printed on if it is not legal tender.

Do You Know That

Last year the Chicago Cubs led the National League pennant race for only eighteen days, but still won the championship. But the New York Giants held the driver's seat for 119 days and finishing down in the third position, a few notches behind the Cardinals. That baseball critics are betting 2 to 1 in New York that Bill Terry will not be manager of the Giants next season. Major A. C. Taylor has named both his great thoroughbred, Indian Broom and Special Agent, for the Narragansett Special, at Narragansett Park track September 16. Dave Levin, hailed by Promoter Jack Curley's publicity bureau, as the first Jew to hold the world's wrestling crown, has another name beside the above. His correct name is Al Wenzel, and he's really a German.

Man-o-War, America's race horse, is not recognized in England's turf record books. Abe Mitchell, noted English golf pro, took fifteen strokes on a hole while playing in the U.S. open championship last year. Percy Williams won the 100-metre Olympic title at Amsterdam in 1928 in 10.8, slower time than Howie McPhee did at the recent trials at Montreal.

A Real Handicap Race

The dean of Royal Victoria Yacht Club members was in a tremendous mood last time we sat beside the old salt at the club. His accurate memory took him back to the day when the Daisy Belle sailed from Victoria to win a race at Nanaimo. The trim craft was thirty feet long, ten feet in beam and not much more than eighteen inches deep. While the Daisy was in the water, the Nanaimo one evening three miners attached a coal oil tin to her rudder with enough rope to hide it from view under the stern. The men, placed on either side, were afraid the Daisy would win. On the day of the race, the Daisy was easily outdistanced. When a strong breeze sprang up the tin of the rudder carried away her rudder.

It was a quiet night at the police station and one of the extra men on duty was indulging in a quiet snooze while up the stairs he heard a loud crashing sound. He was patrolling Esquimalt in the pouring rain when he saw an airplane suddenly fall to the ground. Leaping out of his automobile he made a bee-line for the accident. The rain was coming down in torrents. Soon it was running off his hair and into his eyes, making vision difficult. The police officer, who was patrolling with a start before he reached the wrecked plane. A brother officer was splashing water out of a tea-cup over his face—G.B.

THE ISLAND HIGHWAY

Sir,—Regarding the Island Highway and Cowichan Bay Road, I am quite in accord with the Public Works Department in its effort to eliminate cow trail roads from the Island.

These roads have served their day and should give way to ones laid out by an engineer. Engineering difficulties should be the first consideration in altering the roadways, and there are many points on the Island which would greatly benefit by such alterations.

CONSUMERS' CO-OPERATIVE

Sir—"Housewife" was correct in saying that those were excluded from the luncheon held to promote the establishment of a consumers' co-operative. You might as well exclude fishermen when urging the promotion of a fisheries co-operative.

I met a friend that day who had been told by two members of the association, which sponsored the luncheon, that they were very much in the line of the very much as women were not invited. From inquiries made at the Commonwealth Store, it was not with the knowledge or wish of the society, which realizes it is essentially a housewives business—aff credit and honor to those who stand for progressive helpful movements, but without due thought, much harm can be done. Instead of good, and I would like to add that you would benefit in every way if you become a shareholder in this Consumers' Co-operative, save yourselves the wear and tear of dragging round from store to store to get "apologies" when your profits would be given you without entailing all that effort. Come to the next meeting, to be held shortly, and it will be shown how your difficulties are realized, how Horticultural Show.—At the request of N. Shinkovskiy, M.P. Mr. John A. There is every reason to believe that owing to the assistance of the committee the exhibition will be a splendid success.

Theatrical News.—It is thought the next theatrical attraction at the Victoria Theatre will be "The Great Dictator," a musical comedy. The play is a direct satire from the people who have been with Jeffery Lewis at the Alhambra, in San Francisco. We have in no small authority that Miss Minnie Black, the famous prima donna, supported by a first-class orchestra, will be new towards the latter part of August, a consummation devoutly to be wished.

GUILDFORD CATHEDRAL

Sir,—A news item from London, published in yesterday's Colonist, regarding the laying of the foundation stone of Guildford Cathedral, refers to this as being "only the second Anglican cathedral to be built from its foundations since the Reformation." This is rather misleading, there being, to the writer's knowledge, at least one other example in England (and many in the Dominions, of course), that of Truro Cathedral in Cornwall, designed by the well-known ecclesiastical architect, John Loughborough Pearson.

On the authority of the official guide to the building of the foundation stone of this fine example of recent "Early English" gothic architecture was laid in 1880. The cathedral is substantially complete, including central and western towers, the latter being finished in the year 1910.

It is interesting to note that Truro Cathedral was built on the site of the former parish church of St. Mary's, a small portion of which has been embodied in the cathedral design and known as "St. Mary's Aisle."

Fifty Thousand Fry to Be Liberated Next Month, Malahat Board Hears

SHAWNIGAN LAKE, July 27.—A fair attendance of members marked the regular meeting of the Malahat Board of Trade, held in the S.L.A. Hall on Thursday evening. The president, W. Mudge, occupied the chair.

The meeting approved the attitude of the Vancouver Board of Trade, which took exception to a letter sent out by the Port Arthur Chamber of Commerce, attempting to disrupt the natural flow of grain to the Pacific Coast.

A letter was read from the Game Commission, stating that 50,000 Kamloops trout fry will be liberated in Shawnigan Lake next month. The board will wait on the Department of Public Works with a request for the removal of a rock at Cousins' Corner. The department will also be asked to remove the "slow" signs at the approaches to the Shawnigan village on the Mill Bay and old Victoria roads.

W. Mudge and H. E. Hawking were appointed to look after the arrangements for the board's gala day stall, which will be put on in conjunction with the Farmers' Institute. The next meeting of the board will be held at the home of N. H. Matthews, Mill Bay.

INJURIES FATAL TO FERNIE MAN

FERNIE, July 27.—George Fletcher, who was injured a week ago when an automobile in which he was riding with Hampton McNabb ran off the road near here and turned over, was dead today.

Fletcher's injuries were not believed serious, but he died in hospital here yesterday. McNabb's injuries were not serious.

Fletcher is survived by his widow and three children.

Chatting about New Guinea, which has come to be prominently identified with world mining news since gold was first discovered in the mandated territory a matter of twelve or more years ago, the explorers told something of the difficulties of getting about and seeking

Bound for Home and the Olympic Games

After ten years of exploring, prospecting and mining in the mandated territory of New Guinea, W. B. Babbington (left) and F. McKee are going to enjoy an extended holiday in Europe. They are both keenly interested in the Olympic Games at Berlin and also visit with relatives, McKee in Tyne and Babbington in London. They are both interested in an alluvial gold deposit in New Guinea, which is being worked to good purpose, producing coarse gold, occasionally up to twenty ounces per day with a dozen men. They were both glad to reach Canada, and apparently found the comic pages of Sunday's paper amusing.

EMPRESS IN FROM ORIENT

Asia Docked Yesterday Morning After Smooth
Passage

Foggy weather prevailed on the North Pacific, but the sea was smooth all the way, Captain A. V. R. Lovegrove, P.R.R. master of the Empress of Asia, stated on the arrival of the liner here yesterday morning from Far East ports. The first breeze the ship encountered was off the Vancouver Island shore.

The Asia brought in a fair company of travelers and left-mails and some general cargo before continuing to Vancouver. The liner docked at 7 a.m., and cleared the local dock at 8:30 a.m.

Passengers among the Asia's passengers were Miss P. Husey, of London, making a round-the-world tour; Miss U. Mount-Biggs, connected with the Standard Oil Company, Seattle; W. Fryor, assistant general manager of the Kallan Mining Administration, Shanghai; Mr. and Mrs. E. G. P. Raynor, Johannesburg, on a tour of the world; L. B. Stiles, foreign buyer for the T. Eaton Company, Toronto, returning from a business trip to the Orient; Mrs. E. W. Torrey, wife of the manager of the National City Bank, Montreal.

Others included J. Turner, connected with the Johnston, Allen Company, Ireland; S. A. Wade, prominent wool buyer of Auckland, New Zealand; Miss B. R. Bazeley, connected with the Church Missionary Society, Kobe; Miss A. M. Cole, retiring missionary connected with the Japan Missionary Society; Miss F. M. Freeth, retiring missionary, and a party of Jesuit Fathers returning to Woodstock College, Woodstock, Maryland, from Manila where they have been connected with the Alencio de Manila for the past three years. In the group were Fathers J. H. Rittler, P. H. O'Neill, J. J. Parrell, T. R. Tuite, G. P. Knoepfel, T. J. Rocks, W. F. Masterson and J. J. McKee.

CALGARY, July 27.—Cattle trade steady; good heifers, 3.25 to 3.50; good cows, 2.50 to 2.75; good steers, 4.00; common to medium, 2.00 to 3.25; good veal calves, 3.25. No hogs or sheep sold up to noon.

NEW ENGINE TAKEN OVER

Colorful Ceremony Marked
Delivery of "Jubilee" Locomotive at Montreal

MONTREAL, July 27.—Crashing through a painted canvas illustrating an early engine of more than half a century ago, the Canadian Pacific Railway's new lightweight semi-streamlined locomotive, No. 3,000, was greeted by the enthusiastic cheers of hundreds of spectators at today's colorful ceremony at the Montreal Locomotive Works, as the Empress of Asia, master of the Empress of Asia, stated on the arrival of the liner here yesterday morning from Far East ports.

The new locomotive, which has been named "Jubilee" because it is being put into operation in the jubilee year of the Canadian Pacific Railway's transcontinental passenger service, was praised by Sir Edward Beatty, O.B.E., K.C., LL.D., chairman and president of the company; Mayor Camille Houde, of Montreal; William C. Dickerman, president of the Montreal Locomotive Company, builders of the new locomotive; and J. N. Burke, Canadian Pacific veteran, in addresses which were heard by a distinguished assembly of guests and broadcast on a country-wide radio network through the facilities of the company's communications department.

"Jubilee" and her special string of new style coaches, completing Canada's first train of this lightweight type, will be on view to the general public in Windsor Station, Montreal, commencing August 1. This engine is the first of five. The others are nearing completion and will be in active service in the near future.

After the stage had been set for the appearance of the engine by a description of old-time engines by veteran J. N. Burke, showing by comparison the advances that have been made in the past half century, and the addresses of Mayor Houde, Mr. Dickerman and Sir Edward Beatty, a signal was given and "Jubilee" crashed her way through the painted canvas completely covering the engine of old Engine No. 371, which reached the height of its glory during the passage of the first transcontinental passenger train in 1886, and which was put into service again this year to play an important part in the re-enactment of the first train's arrival at Port Moody in 1886. It will illustrate the progress in locomotive construction when the painting of the old engine, harbor burner smoke stack and all was torn to shreds, and "Jubilee" sleek and shining, moved into sight.

MARKED NEW ERA

In accepting the new flying ace of the steel rails on behalf of the company, Sir Edward Beatty said that it is unusual to have a celebration for the acceptance of a new locomotive, but that this occasion marked a new era in the Canadian transportation field.

"This event is notable," he said, "because it marks the completion of the first order for locomotives given by the Canadian Pacific Railway in a period of five years. At no time in the past fifty years has there been such a lull in locomotive construction. It is my sincere hope that this order, combining with a continued sound recovery from the depths of the depression, may pre-empt better times, not only for locomotive builders, but for our heavy industries in general."

Sir Edward stated that extremes in streamlining the locomotives completely, as has been done by other railways, was avoided for maintenance considerations.

FIRST OF FIVE

"Jubilee" and her special string of new style coaches, completing Canada's first train of this lightweight type, will be on view to the general public in Windsor Station, Montreal, commencing August 1. This engine is the first of five. The others are nearing completion and will be in active service in the near future.

NEW AIR LINE INAUGURATED

Mail and Passenger Service Between Ottawa and Montreal Started

OTTAWA, July 27 (U.P.)—An eight-passenger monoplane today inaugurated daily mail and passenger service between Ottawa and Montreal, connecting at Montreal with services to New York, the rest of North and South America and the West Indies.

Six pounds of mail and a lone passenger, Arthur B. Purvis, chairman of the National Employment Commission, made the inbound flight from Montreal in fifty-five minutes, riding a radio directional beam between the two cities.

A passenger taking off on the plane today at 2 p.m., Eastern standard time, could reach Vancouver at 8 a.m., Pacific standard time, Wednesday. Mail sent at the same time would be delivered at Vancouver forty-eight hours earlier than if it traveled by rail.

A passenger or mail leaving today would be in Kingston, Jamaica, tomorrow evening. A passenger or letter could reach Buenos Aires by Sunday, saving twelve days over travel by other means.

RED CROSS HEAD ENDORSES FILM

Considers "The White Angel" Is Splendid Portrayal of Florence Nightingale's Great Work

In speaking of "The White Angel," the popular motion picture now showing at the Capitol Theatre, Norman Sommerville, K.C., chairman of the National Council of the Canadian Red Cross Society, states:

"I have no hesitation in endorsing this film on behalf of the Canadian Red Cross Society. I think the picture splendidly portrays the difficulties Florence Nightingale encountered and her untiring devotion and indomitable determination in her service to humanity.

"For years we have been endeavoring through publicity to convey to the Canadian public some conception of the devoted service of Florence Nightingale and we know of no better medium by which her remarkable contribution to humanity can be demonstrated than through this picture which is so excellently presented."

HORTON STAR OF DOMINION COMEDY

Noted Comedian Plays Leading Role In "Nobody's Fool"—Intriguing Plot

"Nobody's Fool," the Universal film starring Edward Everett Horton, at the Dominion Theatre, beginning today, is a story about the dumbest or the cleverest man in town, depending on the viewpoint.
His lack of guile and his proclivity for putting his foot into situations where other folks would not dare to thrust a ten-foot pole, lifted him from the humble job of small town water to the position of leading Manhattan realtor.

Whenever he was called on to talk, he had one set speech, about better housing conditions. By sheer luck, or the providence that watches over babes, fools and real estate promoters, he made that speech to a gathering of the leading operators in the metropolis. And they were impressed.

He got mixed up in a plan devised by real estate sharks, to gouge owners of property where title flows could be shown. From this middle, while facing the toughest gang of highlanders in town, the fellow everybody thought a dummy worked out a house project for better housing conditions. He proved to be nobody's fool. His plan guaranteed a return to investors. Best of all, it gave decent living conditions to people who had never known them before.

ing the film colony's elite in the town's most fashionable night spot known as "crooning" and associated with Messrs. Vallee and Crosby.

ATLAS Among the interesting history brought to the screen in Barbara Stanwyck's starring vehicle, "Annie Oakley," now at the Atlas Theatre, is Ned Buntline, played by Dick Elliott.
Buntline, who handled much of Buffalo Bill's publicity, was once considered the most prolific dan-owned by Ed Phillips, who was with Buffalo Bill for fourteen years, were used by the RKO Radio studio to recreate the scenes in the pic-

Melvyn Douglas are featured.

seventeenth century sea piracy as only a great writer can imagine it

COMEDIANS PRESENT UNIQUE COMEDY ACT

Olsen and Johnson, noted stage, screen and radio comedians, who are coming to Victoria Wednesday for four-day engagement at the Capitol Theatre, have been dubbed with a title which they rightly deserve.
The two clowns are called "Public Nuts No. 1 and No. 2," and no description could fit them better.

For years Olsen and Johnson have delighted millions with their unusual type of comedy. In "Anything Happens," the revue they are bringing to the Capitol, they follow the formula to the letter. The comics and their cast of fifty run wild throughout the house and are continually popping up in the most unexpected places. The only members of the Capitol, they follow the more orthodox lines of entertainment—the Gae Foster Girls, a group of beautiful and talented dancers from the famous Romy Theatre in New York.

8 p.m.—The true, thrilling story of the opening of the Kikapoo Strip will be told by the Old Ranger during the "Death Valley Days" programme, under the title of "The Kickapoo" KOMO.

India Responds to England's Attack As Test Continues

Displays Fine Batting Power as Second Test Fixture Progresses in Old Country—Wally Hammond Finishes With 167 as England Declares Second Innings With 571

MANCHESTER, England, July 27.—India have England a real taste of its batting power in the second day's play of the second cricket test match today. Behind by 368 runs on the first innings, the touring team's opening batsmen were still at the wickets at the close of play with the total at 190. England declared its innings at 571 for eight wickets, the Indians' first attempt being 203.

It was an ideal day for hitters. A fast wicket gave bowlers no assistance, and at the start England's heavy artillery punished the tired Indian trundlers. Wally Hammond, Gloucestershire star, completed his innings for 167, his hits including 21 fours. He was followed by Joseph Hardstaff, Nottinghamshire, with 84 and T. Worthington, Derbyshire, 87. Toward the end R. W. C. Robins, Middlesex, auster and Hedley Verity, Yorkshire, were associated in a long partnership, the former getting 76 and Verity 66, not out.

SCORES CENTURY
Not to be outdone, V. Merchant and Mustaq Ali, India's first-wicket pair, lashed out at the English attack. The players lived up to their name as the finest bats on the Indian side, and despite several howling changes, G. D. Allen, England's skipper, was unable to dislodge them before the close. When stumps were drawn Mustaq Ali had run up 105 and his partner slightly more cautious in style, had made 79.

India returns to the wickets for the last day's play tomorrow needing 178 runs to equal England's first-innings score.

The Esquimalt boys played smart ball behind the effective hurling of John Watt, and after taking a two-run lead in the initial canto, scored again in the fourth, fifth and eighth frames.

BRUINS WIN

Scoring a marker in the first, second, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh innings, Painters Bruins defeated the Navy, 6-2, in a Poodle Dog Cafe Cup knockout fixture at Victoria West Park.

The fuelmen collected six base knocks from the offerings of Davies, sailor pitcher, two more than the Navy garnered from the slants of Lloyd Simpson, Bruins' ace moundman. Davies fanned ten batters, and, with better support from his teammates, would have made things very interesting for the winners.

On the extreme left is Horton Smith, Chicago, who tied for the leadership with Byron Nelson, on the extreme right, at the end of the first eighteen holes with sparkling 64's. Next to Horton Smith is Freddy Wood, Vancouver Municipal professional, who set a merry pace for three-quarters of the distance in the Vancouver $5,000 tournament, but slipped enough to drop first money. Standing alongside of Wood is none other than the canny Scot, Macdonald Smith, one of the smoothest stroking golfers playing here. All these boys attract the gallery.

Australians Win Doubles Fixture In Tennis Series

Jack Crawford and Adrian Quist Defeat Pat Hughes and Charles Tuckey in Four Sets to Stay in Running for Davis Cup—Two Singles Matches Carded for Today

WIMBLEDON, England, July 27.—The Australian Davis Cup team remained in running for the international tennis trophy last night when Jack Crawford and Adrian Quist, British-born players, defeated Pat Hughes and Charles Tuckey, two of the best British players, in a four-set match.

The scores were 6-4, 2-6, 7-5, 10-8.

Although the Britons were defeated, they remained strong favorites to retain the trophy they have held for three years, as they need only one victory in the two remaining singles matches tomorrow. Fred Perry, Britain's ace and world's No. 1 ranking player, will meet Crawford in one of the matches and H. W. "Bunny" Austin will take Quist in the other. Perry and Crawford have met thirteen times, with the British holding nine victories. In Austin, Quist will meet a player at the top of his game, as evidenced by the stylish Briton's conquest of Crawford Saturday.

Today's play was spottily throughout, but brightened in the final set when Crawford's drives and Quist's well-aimed cross-court volleys overcame Hughes and Tuckey.

Hughes and Tuckey won the second set, 6-2, tying the count at one-all.

The Australians won the third set, 7-5, and led two sets to one.

The Australians took the fourth and final set, 10-8.

COMBINE BRILLIANTLY

Crawford and Quist combined brilliantly, forcing the Britons to the base line, and displaying some fine smashes and lobs.

On the other hand, Tuckey and Hughes lacked cohesion. Both of them often went after the same ball.

After dropping the first set at 4-6, the British pair began to find their form. Tuckey proved almost unpassable at the net and they also played the Aussie only two games.

Games went with service in the third set until Hughes dropped his in the seventh game. That proved the turning point and enabled Crawford and Quist to take the set at 7-5.

After a ten-minute interval, Hughes and Tuckey appeared refreshed. They led 3-0 in the fourth set and then 4-1. Then Tuckey "let the netter" err.

He put a series of backhand shots into the net and the Australians pulled up to 3-5 and then captured Tuckey's deadly service for the first time in the ninth game for 4-5.

Crawford retained his and the challengers broke through Tuckey again to go ahead at 9-8.

They won the next game, the set at 10-8 and the match.

CANADIAN XI SCORES FIFTH STRAIGHT WIN

Dominion's Touring Cricketers Continue Strake In Old Country

LONDON, July 27.—All opposition looks alike to Hon. R. C. Matthews' young team of Canadian cricketers. Today the visitors recorded the fifth success of their tour by brushing Ibs Cricket Club, a London team, by 183 runs at Cator Road, Sydenham. The completed 249 for ten wickets, declared, in a twelve-a-side match, against 66.

Although bowling was believed by officials to be the weakest link in the Dominion team, the touring trundlers have shown their mettle in all matches played and today, with the wicket slightly in their favor, they had the Ibs batsmen in difficulty at all times.

Ted Carlisle, Toronto-Globe bowler, turned in a great performance, taking five wickets for nine runs, clean-bowling four players and scoring twenty-nine runs, not out. Clam Seagram, another Toronto man, captured three for thirty-three. Walter Scott, Vancouver, two for twelve, and Gordon Percival, Rosedale, Toronto, one for three.

HEADS BATSMEN

Ralph Ripley, Hamilton's only representative of the visiting team, was top-scorer with 58. He was closely followed by Lloyd Percival, Rosedale, Toronto, with 50, and David Carey, Vancouver, made 29.

"Billy" Bell, Toronto skipper of the visitors, duplicated Carlisle's score.

The Canadians rest tomorrow and on Wednesday start a two-day match against the Royal Artillery at Woolwich. The army team fields a strong eleven and Mr. Matthews' players will have to play hard to win.

TWO AMERICAN PROS RECORD CARDS OF 64 AT OAK BAY COURSE

the boys who did so well in the $5,000 open event Vancouver last week found the going mighty tough. Tricky greens took their toll, too, three-putting being frequent by several of the top-ranking United States pros.

PLAYED SMART GOLF

The joint leaders really played beautiful golf. Their tee shots were near perfect, while their approach and putting was all that a golfer would desire.

Horton Smith, who had a drive on the sixteenth to the left behind some trees. In attempting to reach the green his second found a trap and then his third was well short of the pin and he took a five.

He finished the nine in 31 after breaking par on the outgoing route with a neat 33.

However, Nelson was the boy who put par to shame on the first half of the journey. He had four birdies, including deuces at the short second, the eighth and the ninth, besides getting another under-par figure at the 374-yard fourth, to reach the turn in 39. Coming back towards the clubhouse, Nelson carded a 35, which included another deuce at the short thirteenth, and followed by a disastrous five at the fourteenth, where he encountered trouble with his tee shot.

Emory Zimmerman had his bag of clubs working like a charm. He romped over the first nine in 32, three under par, and then came home in 34 for a sparkling 66. He also had four birdies, one at the fifth, a two at the seventh, a three at the tenth and a four on the long twelfth.

BLACK MEETS TROUBLE

Kenny Black, the lad who handed par a terrific lacing at Shaughnessy in the last round of the $5,000 open last week, had a great chance to be right up closer to the leaders but met his Waterloo at the eleventh, where he was in the rocks and a 11 bunker to finish up with a piffling eight. Even at that he finished with a 69 to be right in the thick of the hunt.

Preddy Wood, pro at one of Vancouver's municipal courses, and who was the pre-arranger for three-quarters of the way in the tournament at Vancouver, found the breeze and green conditions came in with a card of 76. Phil Taylor, pro at Oak Bay, played his shots well, but he complained of his putter, which misbehaved all afternoon, and he had to be satisfied with a 72.

THOMSON PROVES IT

Jimmy Thomson, rated as the world's longest driver, demonstrated some of his hitting power to the gallery on the fifth hole by smacking one to the left and then nearly on the carpet. But it faded to the right and went down on the beach, and then his second carried the bunkers in front of the green and rolled up to the left-hand corner a snipe of about 310 yards. Thomson carded a 71 and is still in the hunt.

Preddy Wood, pro at one of Vancouver's municipal courses, and who was the pre-arranger for three-quarters of the way in the tournament at Vancouver, found the breeze and green conditions came in with a card of 76. Phil Taylor, pro at Oak Bay, played his shots well, but he complained of his putter, which misbehaved all afternoon, and he had to be satisfied with a 72.

VANCOUVER IS AWARDED MEET

Mainland City Will Be Scene Of P.N.W. Section Tennis Tourney Next Year

Joe Livengood, of Seattle, was last night elected president of the Pacific Northwest Tennis Association. H. B. Weller, Victoria, was elected vice-president, and E. J. H. Cardinali, Vancouver, re-elected honorary secretary-treasurer. W. L. Warren, Seattle, was named sectional delegate to the United States Lawn Tennis Association meeting.

Nominations were anticipated from Tacoma and Portland but failed to arrive and the above officers were returned by acclamation.

Secretary Cardinali reported applications for membership from Duncan, B.C., and the Highland Racquet Club, of Portland. Both clubs were elected to membership in the association.

The 1937 sectional senior tournament will be held in Vancouver, with the sectional juniors holding away in Seattle.

The schedule next year calls for opening at Portland, followed by meets at Tacoma, Seattle, Vancouver, Victoria and Duncan.

DEVELOPING JUNIORS

Dr. E. W. Boak, retiring president, who has held the office for the past two years and is the only Canadian to hold that position since the formation of the P.N.W.T.A. sixteen years ago, told how the organization had concentrated this year on development of juniors. The junior sectionals at Seattle and the junior elite tournaments at Victoria and Vancouver had proved an immense success and bade fair to bring out many promising youngsters who would make good in a few years.

Dr. Boak stated the P.N.W.T.A. was one of the greatest factors in cementing friendships between Canadian and United States players. It held major ranking with the United States Lawn Tennis Association and winners of P.N.W. sectional doubles always gave a good account of themselves at the U.S.L.T.A. sectional tournament held annually in the Eastern States. He had received wholehearted co-operation from all clubs in the organization during his tenure of office and promised every assistance possible to his successor. He was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for the prosperous financial condition of the association.

Attempt to Save Fish in Stream

In an attempt to aid thousands of cone fingerlings and many tiny fry in the Goldstream River to reach deeper water or sizeable pools where they can grow, members of the Victoria and District Fish and Game Association and the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association are asked to volunteer their services on Wednesday afternoon to aid in digging small channels in the river near the Goldstream Park.

It is hoped a large working party will be on hand, as it is absolutely necessary that this work be carried out now or the fry will be doomed to extinction in the once popular fishing stream.

Anyone able to provide transportation or tools is asked to communicate with any of the local sporting goods stores.

Shoots Mountain Lion in Backyard

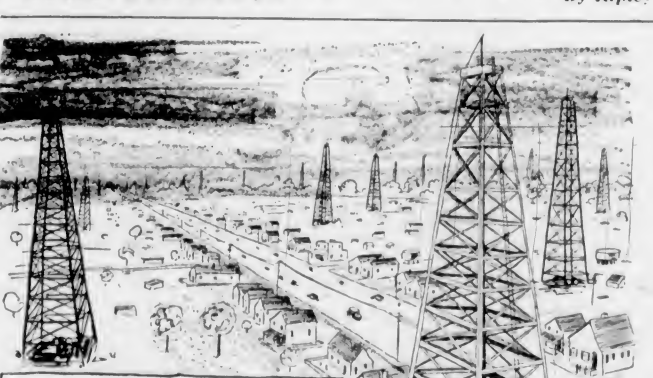

After his small collie treed a cougar in the backyard of his father's farm at Beecher Bay, Melchiosin, Dennis Yates, young hunter, dropped the marauder with a shot through the chest.

The cougar measured six feet eight inches in length. The animal had been prowling in the district for some time and was believed to have been responsible for the loss of a lamb only a few days previous.

On display in front of Wilson & Lenfesty's store yesterday, the mountain lion was the object of much attention.

THE TUTTS ... By Crawford Young

He had been living for some time in the hotel, but as yet he had shown no sign of paying any part of his bill. At the end of the month, the proprietor grimaced. "One of his subjects," he said, "I never pay bills until I hear from the landlord of the subject." The young man haughtily said: "One of the Chelsea's."

Jane Dixon Says:

HERE IS A MOTHER-IN-LAW WHO CAUSED TROUBLE IN HER SON'S HOME AND THEN THREATENED TO HAVE HIS UNHAPPY WIFE ARRESTED BECAUSE SHE WANTED TO BREAK UP HOUSEKEEPING.

At least one-third of the difficulties that come into domestic relations courts are diagnosed by the presiding judges as "mother-in-law trouble."

Fortunately for the continuance of the marriage state, short shrift is being given to the troublesome and interfering mother who insists on imposing her ways, her ideas, even herself, on the younger marrieds, in turning what might otherwise be a happy home, into an armed camp.

The court recognizes the right of a wife to have jurisdiction over her own home, the right of a husband to peace and comfort and authority in that home.

Attempts by another to usurp the right of the wife or the authority of the husband, interference by one whose conduct is detrimental to the happiness of the home, should be checked at once and the offender placed at a safe distance.

Dear Miss Dixon:

Both my husband and I are in our early thirties.

We've been married five years, and during all this time I have pinched and scraped to get our home together.

We were so happy until nineteen months ago when my mother-in-law came to live with us. She is a widow, and my husband is her only child, her daughter having died two years ago.

I realize she is not so young, but I am just about losing my mind over the way she carries on.

SHE BROADCASTS EVERYTHING

Ever since she came to us she has made trouble, not only between my husband and me, but with our neighbors as well. She carries to them everything said or done in our home. Even the salesmen who come to the door are told all our family affairs.

I've threatened to break up housekeeping and my husband and I will take an apartment. She says if I do she will swear out a warrant for my arrest.

We've both asked her to let us get a place for her elsewhere as we cannot get along together. She refuses. If we speak of our plans before her she objects, says my husband is her son and that she is just as much boss of his home as I.

Miss Dixon, I'll do everything I can for her, as I have done; but I can't go on this way. She has gone so far as to lie to my neighbors and my husband about me, telling them I go out to meet men. This is a vicious untruth. At first my husband believed his mother, until he found for himself that these accusations were false.

HUSBAND IN A DILEMMA

This woman is making a nervous wreck of my husband and of me. Either she must leave or I must.

Which would you suggest?

My husband has a responsible position and has all he can do to take care of his work, without all these home troubles. He provides a good home for us and is faithful. I dread to think of leaving him, but as long as his mother lives with us we will never find peace or happiness. He realizes this, but says he is caught between his mother and his wife, and what can he do?—B.D.W.

Answer: It is your husband's duty to protect you against false and vituperative accusations which reflect on your good names. His mother has no moral or legal right in your home, except those you accord her.

Were I in your position I would take my case to the Domestic Relations Court in my district. If necessary, I would swear out a peace warrant against anyone who disturbed the well-being of my home.

Your mother-in-law's threat to take action against your moving is absurd. No court will compel you or your husband to live in a home of unpleasantness and turmoil or to harbor in your household a disturber of its peace. If your husband will provide for her elsewhere, his mother can be made, legally to accept his offer. If necessary, move to a small apartment. Take every measure possible to preserve your marriage and resist, with courage and with determination, those influences which threaten to destroy it.

MIDNIGHT AND PERCY JONES

by VINCENT STARRETT

CHAPTER XVII
What had brought him at this hour, and in this fashion, to the apartment of the murdered Rita Wingfield?

Blackwood grouped to the bed and sat down upon its edge to answer his own question. Vaguely he felt that the case was beginning to take shape.

In this very room, now lost in darkness, Janice Hume had furiously searched for something of importance. But had she found it? When Zaida had told her that her search was known, she had gone hysterical. In the circumstances, it was not probable that Janice had failed to find the thing she sought? And surely it must be something, he reflected: that Janice feared would identify her with the crime. Some piece of wearing apparel, possibly? He had quite certainly seen her searching in the closet.

Almost more important, he realized, was the question's corollary: Who had it been—if it had been anybody—who had aided Janice in her search? In brief, who the devil had been with Janice in this very room?

He was groping for the light switch when he heard a sound that struck him rigid. It was a light cough, somewhere in the apartment itself.

"The murderer!"

The words rushed through his mind with such force and clarity that he almost believed they had been shouted aloud.

But it was a mad idea. The murderer, if he—or she—had sense, was now full many a mile away, establishing a glorious alibi.

Blackwood breathed more freely. Nevertheless, he rather wished that he had slipped a pistol into his pocket before going to the theatre.

It was at this moment, with ears cocked apprehensively for further sounds, that a new and paralyzing thought occurred to him.

If Percy Jones were in hiding, either as murderer or suspect, innocent or guilty, what safer place for him to hide—now that it was empty—than in the Wingfield apartment? The daring of it would be enormous; but it was quite the last place anyone would think to search. The place was closed—locked—by police order—until such time as some executor of the murdered woman might appear to take it over. The inquiry—continued—had been held that afternoon.

"What a notion! Percy! With Janice close at hand to feed him and keep him posted!"

It was a brilliant, flight of fancy, and so hard did it seize hold on him that for a moment he almost knew that it was so. What it did to his various other theories he did not stop to consider.

He put away his spectacles, and stepped to the inner door. He ventured further and stepped into the kitchen. Softly he slipped along the passage leading to the dining-room and put his hand around the corner.

There was a faint light in the bedroom off the living-room—the room in which the murder had been committed. A little light that glowed and dimmed and vanished and re-appeared like foxfire on a marsh; a miniature torchlight, he supposed. Small sounds of occupancy were telegraphed across the rooms that lay between.

He stepped into the dining-room—and a loose board creaked beneath his foot. He shuddered and stood stiff. Listening. The light had vanished. There was no sound whatever from the murder chamber. The darkness lay in visible layers around him. It advanced upon him and receded noiselessly.

Then he was aware that something was moving in the room beyond. Something half-felt, half-seen, that floated ghostlike between him and the farthest patch of blackness. He stepped back recklessly against the wall and ran his fingers over it, groping for the light switch. But he had lost his bearings in the darkness, and it was some moments before fore he had found the button. It was close beside the door through which he had just entered.

A faint perfume, intangible as the darkness itself, yet vaguely alluring and familiar, drifted to him across the chamber; and quite suddenly he knew that the intruder was a woman. His finger pressed the switch.

At the same instant he heard the front door softly open and softly close.

The visitor had gone.

For a moment he stood blinking, blinded by the sudden dazzle of light; then he was hastening in pursuit, with all the chairs of Grand Rapids, Michigan, it seemed, across his path. He flung into the entry and snatched open the door.

Nothing!

The passage was bare from end to end. No sense of recent occupancy prevented it. There was no sound of elevators in either shaft.

The stairway, when he had reached it, was a soundless void.

Blackwood searched his soul for oaths that might be suitable to the situation.

Then a fragment of sound disturbed the impersonal stillness. Somewhere—in some distant apartment—perhaps—a radio was open and an orchestra, now reaching a passage in fortissimo, was playing "Has Anybody Seen My Gal?" It seemed to Blackwood a singularly appropriate inquiry.

Discouraged, he returned to the door he had left open and gently closed it behind him. The impalpable odor of perfume still lingered in the living-room. In the bedroom it was stronger. The woman had been there for some time. He sniffed the elusive scent with appreciation—with interrogation. Certainly somewhere he has smelled the stuff before.

That the intruder had been the mysterious redhead he had no doubt; whatever. Quite probably, in the light of Zaida's surprising narrative, he had been face to face—in darkness—with the murderer of Janice Hume.

Was she too searching for the evidence that had worried Janice to her death?

Anne Gray, thank heaven, was at the theatre and probably was now absorbed of an unworthy way.

But what had she been doing with Rolfe Colbath? In the excitement of Janice's murder he had almost forgotten Anne Colbath.

Upstairs, he supposed, Zaida was still telling her story, under the June-bug eyes of Dallas. And she too was virtually absolved—though she would probably be arrested before the night was over.

He lighted a cigarette and turned his attention to the bedroom, in which, two nights before, the cause of all this difficulty had been shot to death. Under a blaze of light, again he noted the funeral counterpane, the yellow window hangings, and the clutter of bottles upon the dresser. The cards, however, had vanished from the table, and with them the ash tray that had called forth his first pontifical utterances. With the revolver, the handkerchief, and the matches, these were now in the hands of the police.

But the array of photographs upon the wall remained. He re-read the extravagant inscriptions with cynical humor and turned away. There was no one of the slithering celebrities, whose face was known to him, and none whose recorded name evoked the faintest shock of interest. Then—swiftly—he turned back.

Something was missing from his memory picture of that wall of photographs. He reflected that it was Janice Wingfield herself was missing.

Blackwood recalled the photograph quite clearly. It had been the only portrait of Janice in the gallery, and so he had studied it. A slightly faded photograph of Rita Wingfield as she had been in earlier years—standing beneath a parasol, her hand turned coyly to one side after the fashion of maidens in a studio, and wearing a costume that suggested a Methodist choir performance of "The Mikado."

This was the picture that was missing. There was even a small chip out of the calcimine to show that the removal had been recent.

In his mind ran a swift impression of a red-haired woman—flinging herself wildly down the staircase, clasping a small framed photograph against her breast. How near he had been to laying hands upon her.

But it was not a photograph that Janice Hume had sought. The photographs had been there for anyone to find. Nor was it the incriminating weapon, now locked away in Dallas' desk.

A handkerchief? Could she have left a handkerchief on the day she had turned over the revolver? With her initials, possibly, worked into the corner? But the handkerchief that had been found beside the body was Rita's own—wasn't it?

He hunted diligently for half an hour and found precisely nothing. Then, glancing at his watch, he hurried from the apartment.

After all, the missing photograph was now the clue to work with. There could be only one possible reason for its absence. It was the clue to Rita Wingfield's past—and out of Rita's past had come her murderer. What the devil had been the city of her origin? It had been plainly stamped upon the photograph beneath the name of the photographer. He had read it with a smile; but now—annoyingly—it eluded him.

On the whole, however, the drama critic of The Morning Chronicle was not displeased with himself. Sooner or later he would remember.

(To Be Continued.)

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

THE TREATMENT OF HEMORRHOIDS OR PILES

SOME years ago an illustrated advertisement showing a number of individuals passing a prominent corner in a large city had the following reading: "matter under it. Four out of every five of these people have piles." The authorities had the advertisement withdrawn from the newspapers because, while hemorrhoids are common, it fortunately does not affect four out of five.

During the examination for military service many recruits were rejected because they had hemorrhoids. At that time the injection method was not in general use and surgical removal was done on those who were very anxious to enlist. While some sufferers seem to keep comfortable by using a soft diet and keeping intestine regular with paraffin or Russian oil, there is really no "medical" treatment that gives results. Applying pain killing ointments and using suppositories sometimes, of course, tide cases over. To get completely rid of this distressing ailment the injection or surgical methods are necessary.

Speaking generally, where the hemorrhoids or piles are well up inside and away from the opening of the bowel, the injection method is considered the simplest. It means that the individual can go in the evening or noon hour to the physician's office thus losing no time from his employment. He has no hospital fees—operating room, anesthetic, and room and board—to pay, in addition to the surgeon's fee. A visit of a few minutes at the surgeon's office once or twice a week for two or three weeks is usually sufficient to get rid of the hemorrhoids present.

It is fortunate for a great many sufferers that this injection method is now available and gives good results. It means that old people, those that bleed easily, those too busy to enter hospital, those who dread or are unable to afford hospitals and operations, can now get relief from the pain and embarrassment of hemorrhoids.

However there is still the large number whose hemorrhoids are down low, some that protrude or come out when the bowels move, those whose hemorrhoids are right on the margin—hanging half in and half out—all of which require careful surgical operation to obtain successful results. These patients are naturally disappointed when told that the injection method cannot be used in their particular cases, but physicians and surgeons are agreed on the above points.
